(HIGHLIGHTS)

ABOUT DSW KENYA

DSW Kenya is a non-governmental organisation registered in Kenya as one of the East African country offices of Deutsche Stiftung Weltbevölkerung (DSW), a global development organisation founded and headquartered in Germany.

DSW Kenya focuses on the needs and potential of the largest youth generation in history. We are committed to creating demand for and access to health information, services and supplies for the youth, and to securing their right for a brighter future. We achieve this by engaging in advocacy, capacity development, and family planning initiatives, which make sure the youth of today are empowered to lead healthy and self-determined lives.

DSW Kenya was established in May 2000 in Nairobi. We have additional offices in Mombasa and Kitale with active programme interventions in 16 counties: Bungoma, Embu, HomaBay, Kakamega, Kilifi, Kwale, Laikipia, Meru, Mombasa, Nairobi, Nakuru, Nandi, Nyandarua, Trans Nzoia, Uasin Gishu, and West Pokot.

FOREWORD

2018 marked an important milestone for DSW Kenya. It was the first year of delivering our 2018 – 2022 strategic plan.

In 2018, our budget advocacy work scored some important goals. In our bid to secure more and better domestic family planning funds, we supported seven county governments in Kenya to develop Family planning Costed Implementation Plans. We see this as a demonstration of the willingness of county governments to commit domestic funds to family planning.

DSW Kenya's innovative programming has once again shown that investing in knowledge building and information sharing on sexual reproductive health for young people is the surest pathway to the empowerment of young people. We went a step further and invested in the leadership of young people in advocacy. Today, through our support, hundreds of young people are participating in important decision-making spaces and leading the change they want for themselves and their communities.

Our Young Adolescent Project (YAP) model delivered interesting results. More adolescent girls in Kilifi County are empowered. With support from their parents, teachers and their communities, they are staying in school, they are supporting their peers to navigate the challenges of growing up, and taking leadership roles too. We have confirmed that access to information on sexual reproductive health by young people makes a difference.

As we present highlights of our work in 2018, we reaffirm our commitment to working with young people, their communities as well as our partners and donors in Kenya to empower the youth to be healthy, earn a decent living, participate in decision-making spaces, and exercise their rights free from coercion, discrimination, and violence.

7 FAMILY PLANNING COSTED IMPLEMENTATION PLANS DEVELOPED

DSW Kenya supported the development and launch of seven Family Planning Costed Implementation Plans, to secure more and better domestic funds for family planning.

In 2018, we worked with 11 county governments and the national government in the development of policies and frameworks that will provide a conducive environment for improved sexual and reproductive health services for young people in Kenya.

4.66%

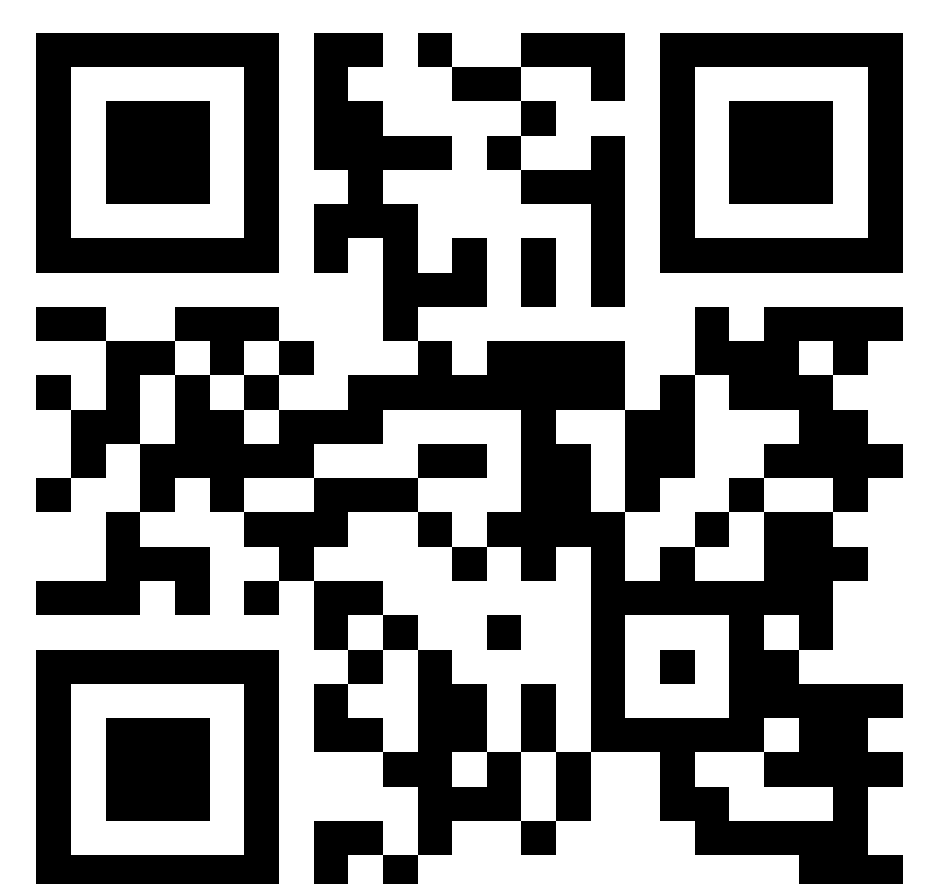

The increase in budgetary allocation for family planning in the 11 counties DSW Kenya works in compared to 2017. The highest allocation was recorded in Nyandarua County where there was an increase of 9.86% followed by Trans Nzoia with 8.56%.

The lowest increase in allocation was in Laikipia with 2.34% increase followed by Nakuru with an increase of 2.73%.

In 2013, Kenya overhauled the country's governance system, shifting from a centralized system of governance to a devolved one.

One of the functions that was devolved to the new 47 county governments was health services, including family planning. The newly formed county governments became responsible for planning and executing family planning programmes.

DSW Kenya works with the youth in 11 counties in Kenya, empowering them to be part of decision making.

Read the story of Santa Kagendo, a young woman from Meru County, who spoke on behalf of the youth of Meru on World Contraception Day 2018, in a room full of decision makers, including governor of Meru county, at the launch event of the Meru County Family Planning Costed Implementation Plan. Santa talked about why the youth of Meru County need access to youth friendly sexual and reproductive health services, including family planning services.

Additionally, Kevin Kocheli (Trans Nzoia County), Felix Magut (Nandi County), and Andrew Wachelon (West Pokot County) were appointed members of the County Budget and Economic Forums (CBEFs) in their counties for the next five years.
